

TELEGRAMS:
“KENDALL, STRATFORDONAVON.”
“PHYLAX”

NATIONAL TELEPHONE
NO 31 STRATFORD-ON-AVON

F. KENDALL & SON, LTD.
LONDON OFFICES, 59 & 60 CHANCERY LANE, W.C.

Stratford-on-Avon Oct 1913

We have to announce with deep regret the untimely death of Mr. Reginald E. Evans, who came to us as chemist in the year 1890, and who was appointed a director of the company in 1906.

As head of our analytical and research laboratories he was assiduous and careful in detail, fertile in originating new processes and practical in carrying them out. He took a great part in the arrangement of the premises and plant of our new works, where a great deal of planning and ingenuity was required to develop the requirements of our industry on such a much larger scale. It is sad to think that so soon after the completion of this great work, of which he was justly proud, he should be taken away in the midst of a most promising and useful career.

To great abilities he united an affectionate disposition and an unassuming manner of address which greatly endeared him to all those over whom he had held authority as well as to his colleagues and friends. By all of us he will be greatly missed and by none more than the undersigned.

G. F. Kendall,
Governing Director,
F. Kendall & Son, Ltd